

Travelers Tales

Travelers Tales is a collection of original stories about four individual journeys into another place and time.

They are all written for the contemporary market and contain bizarre twists and turns that keeps the audience guessing right to the end.

They are entertaining stories whilst thought provoking.

The four 90 minute screenplays have just been completed after three years of writing and research which included consultancy from some of the world's leading script advisors.

The package is under one investment umbrella which includes the establishment of a distribution company.

Highlights of the investment are:

- The scripts are written and owned by Richard Bradley Productions which makes the film package free of any third parties or copyright issues.
- The films will be made over two years and released individually then as a four part package under Travelers Tales to provide a viable future home entertainment package.
- A distribution company will be established by Richard Bradley Productions who have years experience in this field and as investors will share ownership of the distribution company it brings them to the top of the “food chain” with all returns including the distributors first return share.
- An initial return of 35% of the entire investment package is guaranteed paid as the films are produced.
- All eligible Australian investors will be able to apply for tax depreciation on the “at risk” investment for 3 to 5 years.

Initial enquiries should be through Greg Tingle who will arrange a formal meeting with Richard Bradley on this very unique and exciting investment package.
